

RELIGIOUS STUDIES

College of Arts and Sciences

Explore humanity with a minor in Religious Studies

MAKE AN IMPACT with a minor in Religious Studies

DISCOVER new religious ideas and more about your own beliefs

BUILDING connections among diverse cultures and traditions

	FIRST YEAR	SECOND YEAR	THIRD YEAR	FOURTH YEAR+
Your Courses	Learn about a breadth of religions in REL 1103 while becoming acquainted with how to study religion in an academic setting	Take the next step in course work with introduction to New Testament, Old Testament, Rel and the Body, Rel in Film, Rel in America	Consider supplementing your degree program with an associated language; check for REL courses that fit with your major classes like HIST, ART, and ENGL	Focus on upper level courses that you find interesting: Rel & Conflict in the Middle East, Religions of the Native Americans, Women in the Bible
Your Experience	Contact major advisor & discuss which courses fit both major & minor requirements, attend student organization and Religious Studies events	Reach out to faculty to determine if there is a topic you would like to cover as an independent study	Consider a project for a Wentz research scholarship , join a research group in your area of interest, or work within the Religious Studies Program	Attend and consider presenting at various conferences including the OSU Undergraduate Research Symposium
Your Community	Participate in the Religious Studies Student Organization (RSSO)	Consider leadership roles in RSSO , Get involved with planning outreach events for RSSO	Reach out to faculty to recommend speakers for Religious Studies colloquium series	Attend the orientation and NASA Powwow
Your Career Readiness	Meet with both your academic advisor and faculty members to discuss how to plan your program to best suit your specific needs	Explore internships and meet with career services to prepare for applying and interviewing for jobs	Prepare for postgraduate exams like the GRE or LSAT	Attend career fairs , resume revision sessions, and interview practice events or apply to graduate programs in the fall semester
Your Personalized Path
Consider a major in psychology, sociology, history, political science, or English.

YOU WILL LEARN

How to understand & interact with different cultures & beliefs respectfully. How to effectively communicate about sensitive topics such as religion, faith, gender. How to critically analyze ancient & modern texts & discuss their impacts on religion.

WHAT IS NEXT

Work in fields like Mental Health, Law, Education, Ministry, International Affairs, Business, & Politics.

Enter graduate school for a variety of degrees for which these skills would be valuable.

Learn more about building your custom path, visit:
okla.st/religious_studies

