A map of the African continent is shown in the background. The landmasses are white with black outlines for country borders. A large, solid orange area covers the eastern half of the continent, including the Red Sea, the Gulf of Aden, and the Indian Ocean. Two callout boxes with blue borders and white backgrounds are positioned over the map. The first box, located in the upper right, points to a location in Iran. The second box, located in the lower left, points to a location in Nigeria. The text inside the boxes is black.
