PREPARATORY ACADEMY

Nathan Hooper (Youth & Community Orchestra Assistant)

Nathan Hooper is studying conducting as a graduate student under Dr. Thomas Taylor Dickey at Oklahoma State University. He is serving as assistant conductor to the OSU symphony orchestra and OSU youth and community orchestra. Nathan worked as a music teacher in Pocatello, Idaho and Safford, Arizona, and has taught both orchestra and band. He first learned violin in Elementary School and has loved music ever since, participating in and directing many orchestras and choirs. He has had the privilege of working with music groups in several places in the United States, Europe and Mexico. He hopes to get his doctorate degree in conducting next.
